Note:

This form is a second codicil that amends an existing will by (1) adding a provision to the original will, (2) revoking a provision in the first codicil, and (3) substituting a provision. A modification may have been unnecessary at the time the first codicil was drafted, requiring the second codicil to accommodate the testator's further change in circumstances. If the first codicil made similar changes, the second codicil should state this fact for the sake of clarity. A testator may have devised a sum of money, changed the amount in a first codicil, and then later decided to alter the sum again.

The revocation section of the form is for use if the testator has eliminated a devise by a first codicil and later intends to reinstate it as the devise originally appeared in the will.
